

Mammoth Parade Marks Armistice Day Observance

Local Schools, Organizations Participate

A colorful and inspiring Armistice Day parade swung through the streets of Bay St. Louis Wednesday as local schools and organizations paid tribute to the heroes who gave their lives to preserve the freedom of this nation. The parade, under the auspices of the local American Legion, originated at Bay High School at 9:30 a.m. and terminated at the Hancock County Court house with ceremonies that included flag raising ceremonies, addresses and a three-gun salute by the local firing squad. Headed by a police escort, the Legion color-bearers and other members of the Legion led the parade. Making up the body of the parade, which included several blocks, were the colorful red and gold uniforms of the majorettes and the St. Stanislaus band, followed by the bright dresses and blue blouses of the American Legion Auxiliary. The Boy Scouts followed by the Girl Scouts. St. Joseph Academy girls, picturesque in white skirts and blue sweaters, wearing majorette and navy blue and white clad bands of Bay High school, and a pep band of Bay High school students starting with the third grade, and ending with the eighth grade, followed by the 4-H Club from Logtown, followed by representation from Dedeaux School, Cleveland School, Logtown School, Logtown School, and the Sellers Future Farmers of America. The 4-H delegation from Clermont, in their green and white outfits, carrying the star of the procession, Gainesville school completing the line. After the procession had wound its way through the Bay, the group halted at the courthouse for Armistice Day ceremonies. Lucien Kidd, Commander of Clermont Post 139, introduced the speakers. The principal address was given by Dr. Kety of Piquette, Commander of the 14 District, American Legion. An address was made by John Rutherford, Commander of the 17 District. Brief talks also were given by A. C. Mitchell, Clerk of Courts, and City Commissioner Sylvan J. Ladner. M. C. Atwood, Chaplain of the local American Legion, gave the prayer. A salute was fired by the Legion firing squad, and Flag Raising Ceremonies were conducted by the Boy Scouts. Following the ceremonies, the parade continued to Bay High School, where the group disbanded.

LIONS HEAR TALK ON BLOOD BANK AT MEETING MONDAY

The Bay St. Lions Club, in their first November meeting at Hotel Reed, heard a talk by Dr. Jesse Sewell on the importance of setting up a walk-in blood bank for Hancock County for emergencies. Dr. Sewell pointed out the vital necessity of a local blood supply, instead of depending on New Orleans and Gulfport to send whole blood to Bay St. Louis, and perhaps in the space of the two hours elapsed leaving a patient enter deep shock.

The physician cited three recent cases, wherein an immediate supply of blood would have made a great difference in the patient's treatment.

In Club activities the Lions were reminded that a Zone 1, Region 3, District 30-D meeting would be held in Piquette on November 17 at 7:30 p.m. at Walker's Cafe. They were read an appeal from the Navy, asking that 17 year old youths apply immediately for Reserve Officer Training.

The Sight Conservation Committee, Rev. Charles Schultz and Dr. Walter Russo, were asked to certify for payment the request from the County Board of Health for assistance in furnishing glasses for two Hancock County children.

The Lions heard a report from the Halloween Committee on the 2nd annual party held for children last Saturday night. A crowd approaching 400 was entertained and fed, and the committee especially thanked Bill Lizana of Bay St. Louis for entertaining the children with his world famous horse, "Golden Lady." The committee also noted that Mrs. Julia Schultz of 111 Second Street and Mrs. Lena Davis of 208 Carroll Ave. were to be commended for their work and cooperation.

Mrs. Davis was a guest of the club. The Lions voted to back the Legion-sponsored walk-in blood bank for the County, and Lions Carver, Chapman and Heitzmann were named to meet with the other civic organizations on Monday night.

The next Lions Club meeting is scheduled for November 23 at noon at Hotel Reed.

General Guerre Addresses Rotary

Guest speaker at the weekly meeting and luncheon of the Rotary Club yesterday was General Louis F. Guerre.

The General spoke on the origin of Armistice Day. The symbolism of the day, as one of tribute to the men who died to preserve the liberty of this nation, and of his recent visits to four high schools in Hancock County. The General visited the schools at the invitation of the County Superintendent of Schools, E. E. Brant.

General Guerre visited Bay High School on Thursday of last week, and last Friday visited Sellers, Kiln and Dedeaux.

He said he was astounded and amazed to find that none of the four schools made flag raising ceremonies or the pledging of allegiance to the flag of the United States a part of the school program.

He also pointed out that in Mississippi Armistice Day is not a legal holiday. A motion was made by one of the members of the Rotary that work be done to try to get representation at the coming session of the Legislature to introduce a bill whereby November 11 would be made a legal holiday in this state.

The General further pointed out that if the Superintendent of Education had not cooperated with the American Legion on Armistice Day and declared a holiday for the public schools in the county, the parade would have been very much less impressive. It was the participation of the schools in the marching, the General said, that swelled the ranks and gave such an impressive demonstration.

General Guerre, who is from Louisiana, moved to Bay St. Louis with his wife about two years ago, and resides on Carroll Ave.

44,000 More Acres Cotton in State

Mississippi will receive approximately 44,000 more acres for cotton than were planted in 1950 if proposals made at a conference of cotton leaders and the sub-committee in Washington last week are accepted, President Boswell Stevens of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation said.

Stevens pointed out that the proposals stipulated that the cotton acreage figure be increased from 17,900,000 to 21 million acres, and that 1 1/2 per cent or 315,000 acres in addition should be equally divided between four western states and the states of the Old South with 157,500 acres going to each group. It was proposed that this be a reserve based on a 5-year average.

These proposals were tentatively agreed upon by the group subject to approval by the various interested agricultural agencies.

Stevens pointed out that if the proposals are adopted Mississippi will receive approximately 2,198,000 acres for 1954. The present acreage figure would allow the state only 1,780,000 acres for cotton.

Another amendment suggested that any county having a cropland factor of less than 33 1/2 per cent shall use history in allocating additional acres. The factor is to be used by counties having above 40 per cent cropland.

The sub-committee is composed of Mississippi Senators James O. Eastland, Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.) and Edward J. Thye (R-Miss.).

About twelve young ladies, close friends of the prospective bride, were present.

Miss Dick was charmingly groomed in a brown wool frock with white and green trim. She was presented with a large of white carnations by the hostesses.

Mrs. Dick, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Chadwick, maternal grandmother, also were present. Mrs. Vassalli received two guests in an intimate black tulle dress, and Miss Martin was also quite chic in black wool jersey with black tulle trim.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE TO CRACK DOWN ON LICENSE VIOLATORS

Residents Must Have Mississippi Tags, Warns Egloff

Full penalties under the law to violators of automobile license tag laws will be exacted by his office, Sheriff John Egloff warned this week.

"Section 9357 of the Mississippi Code of 1942 prohibits residents of the state to drive vehicles with out-of-state tags," the sheriff said. "It further prohibits as unlawful the purchase of tags in counties other than the one in which the owner of the vehicle resides."

Sheriff Egloff said Nov. 15, 1953, will be the deadline for all motor driven vehicles carrying unlawful tags to purchase Hancock County tags. Thereafter he and his deputies will "enforce the law to the letter."

"Louisiana tags which are so prevalent on the Mississippi Coast will be particularly checked," said the sheriff.

"Repeated warning have been given to residents of this county with regard to such violations, yet there is a continuing disregard of the law. Such flagrant violations will be stopped," continued the Sheriff, "and persons who are defiant of the warnings can expect to pay full penalties."

New Classrooms To Be Ready Soon

The new addition for Bay High School is three-quarters completed, and will be utilized as school rooms when students return after the Christmas Holidays. Supt. S. J. Ingram said yesterday.

Superintendent Ingram said both the addition to Bay High and the addition to the Bay St. Louis Junior High School are in the last quarter of completion and would be ready for use after Christmas.

Last week an inspection of the work was made by members of the Federal Inspection Service.

The concrete block and brick work on the addition is well advanced.

Construction of these additions are completely fireproof, and with modern methods of ventilation and air conditioning, insure of protection to health and sight of students.

Miss Alice Nacaise, who is patient in Memorial Hospital, she was moved to a private home, was returned by Father Ambrose to Bay St. Louis at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. C. Farris on DuPont Ave. on vacation.

Last week Dr. Jackie and Dr. W. S. Wolfe, who were with the patient, were with the patient.

The concrete block and brick work on the addition is well advanced.

RUMORS

Running riot in the community last week of the reported appearance in Waveland of Boone, the highly publicized alleged sex maniac murderer, are entirely unsubstantiated, Sheriff John Egloff said.

Boone, who is thought to have perpetrated the recent crime that shook the city of New Orleans, has escaped apprehension. Rumors to the effect that he had been seen in Pass Christian superseded those of last week that he was in Waveland.

Answering a call to the effect that Boone allegedly had forced entrance into a Waveland home and at the point of a gun had forced the occupant to give him food and then escort him in the direction of a bus, Egloff and two of his deputies searched the area, but found no one answering the description in this location.

Such wildfire spreading of false information is detrimental to the morale of a community. It stands to reason that in a small area such as this strangers do not go unnoticed. It is very difficult for a fugitive to remain undetected for any length of time. Safety for such a person would be more readily available in the thronged cities of this country, rather than in small communities.

This man is now hiding to preserve his life. It does not stand to reason that he would appear in locations where he is most likely to be recognized, or where food would be difficult to obtain without the risk of exposing himself.

Southern Bell Operating Vice-President J. G. Bradbury of Atlanta, shown making presentation of Special Citation for exceptional public service, which is accepted by Miss Erma J. Houston of the Clarksdale exchange for the more than 64 Southern Bell and Western Electric employees who braved fire and smoke to keep telephone lines open during last July's big downtown fire.

CLARKSDALE — Local Employees of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Western Electric Company have just received the Telephone Company's Special Citation for extraordinary public service during last July's major downtown fire when they combined forces to keep telephones operating in spite of excessive smoke and heat.

A crowd of more than 170 were on hand for the presentation ceremonies held Friday night at the Alcazar Hotel. Approximately 65 of those present were the local employees honored by the citation. Others present were public officials, local civic leaders and telephone company representatives from various points.

Presentation of the hand-decorated and inscribed scroll was made by J. G. Bradbury of Atlanta, Operating Vice-President of Southern Bell. It was accepted by Miss Erma J. Houston for the Southern Bell and Western Electric employees who took part in the acts commemorated by the citation.

In praising those men and women for their bravery and devotion to duty, Mr. Bradbury recalled that the group had maintained service during a period of heavy demand in spite of many dangers and handicaps.

A raging fire engulfed the building next door to the one housing the exchange. Mr. Bradbury said, "Dense, choking smoke from the burning building filled the operating room and the exchange building itself barely escaped the flames."

"At the height of the fire, six operators fainted," he said, "because the temperature had risen to 105 degrees in the room whose air-conditioning equipment had failed when electric power was cut-off by the fire."

Hoses brought into play by the Southern Bell and Western Electric men protected the building from the flames, and helped reduce the heat in the operating room. They rigged up emergency fans and kept them playing on the operators during the several hours required to bring the flames under control.

The presentation ceremonies opened with an invocation by the Reverend Garland H. Holloman, J. M. Phillips, Mississippi Manager for Southern Bell, presided and introduced state, district, and local representatives of the company who were present.

E. R. Jenkins, Clarksdale Group Manager for the company, presented the local civic leaders and public officials who attended. The presentation ceremonies were followed by a reception during which refreshments were served.

John DeLozier and Danny Locket were injured in the game against Biloxi. Both are on the mend now and we hope to see them in the next game which will be against McDonough of New Orleans.

The Delta High School held their meeting Tuesday afternoon at Patsy Favre's home on Union Street.

The Bay High Tigers were victorious over NOA of New Orleans. The score was 25-0.

The SJA Mothers Club is giving a party for the high school students this Saturday night in the gym. This party was promised them if they succeeded in getting one hundred per cent in the Mothers Club drive. This is the first time the high school department has ever had 100 per cent.

Patsy Favre was the guest of Gayle Drury in Pass Christian last Thursday night. Patsy attended the Long Beach Pass Hi football game in Long Beach.

Janet Genie, Connie Ruppert, Julie Blanchard, Helen Genie, Daise Loup, Dorothy Larroux, Gayle Drury, Patsy Favre, Jeanette Monte, Bonnie Rapier, Leonard Benvenuto, Humphrey Keisanac and Charles Stashle were seen in Biloxi Friday night rooting for the Rockchaws.

Alice Dupequier spent the weekend in New Orleans. Alice seems to be very fond of the "big city" these days.

The annual cantata by the Girls Chorus of Bay High School will be presented on the evening of December 18 at the school auditorium.

Mrs. A. O. Dresher of New Orleans was a week-end guest of Mrs. Wilson Wittlesberger. They attended the evening performance at the Little Theatre.

WINTERING METHODS COMPARED

Two different methods of wintering beef cows are being compared in a long-range study conducted by the Agricultural Experiment Station at State College. One group of cows remains on permanent pasture each winter, another group is wintered under similar conditions except that 1 pound of cottonseed meal per cow is fed daily in addition to the pasture clippings.

Two groups are wintered on winter grazing, one by continuous grazing and the other limited to three hours of grazing per day.

The fifth method in the study is barn lot feeding of 30 pounds of sorghum silage, 5 pounds grass hay and 1 pound cottonseed meal. Detailed results are being published in November issue of Mississippi Farm Research, monthly periodical available on request at the Experiment Station, State College.

RAINS NOT ENOUGH IN HALTING FIRES

The state chief of forest fire control said recent rains were "far from enough to relieve the dangerous forest-fire situation in Mississippi."

In a statement to the press Jarmon F. Smith said fire prevention efforts should not be relaxed. High winds last week following the state's first rain in 10 weeks caused moisture to evaporate rapidly, leaving conditions much the same as they were before the rain, he said.

TIGERS TO PLAY CLARA

The Bay High Tigers will play the Clara High School Whippets of Wayne County Saturday night at St. Stanislaus stadium. Clara High School was formerly Wayne County Agricultural High School and in days past was rated as one of the toughest schools in the district. Up to the present time, the Whippets have won three ball games and have shown promise of giving the Tigers a rough time.

The Clara team, coached by Warren Hutto, will run from a single wing formation and depend on a fleet tail-back and good pass receiving ends to do their scoring.

The Bay High Tigers, starting slow, have now begun to roll in good fashion and will be in their best physical condition of the season come Saturday night.

The Tigers showed a spirited running attack against NOA last week in the fine running of Henry Monti, Ronald Landers and Hugo Favre combined with the flawless ball handling of Donald Cole and Terrell Randolph.

The game will be played Saturday night at St. Stanislaus Stadium. Game time 8 p. m. Admission 35c and 75c.

Members of the Bay High faculty attending Homecoming at Mississippi Southern over the week-end were Mr. Donald Caldwell, Mr. Robert Ladner, Mr. Bennie Nobles, and Superintendent S. J. Ingram.

Mr. Eli Abbott, Area Forester for the Federal Security Office of Education, visited the elementary public school project last week and found everything in order. This building is approximately three-fourths completed and should be ready for occupancy following the Christmas Holidays. The Valena C. Jones project is also two-thirds completed and will be ready to be occupied following the Christmas Holidays. These two projects are very much needed to provide sufficient room for the students in public school.

The high school students in American History and classes in American Government have devoted a great deal of time this week in their class to the study of the recommendation for the educational program outlined by the Revere Legislature Study Committee. A great deal of interest has been shown by these students and a number of them are planning to write their Legislator and Senator urging their approval of this program. The study of these measures has focused the need of the improvement in our educational program to the viewpoint of the students and they have become interested in trying to do their part in

The Bay High School will participate in the observance of Armistice Day on Wednesday, Nov. 11, by entering their band and entire student body in a County wide school parade beginning at the local high school and continuing through the main part of town to the Court House where appropriate exercises will be held.

The local American Legion is to be commended for their effort in promoting this day in which they hope to stress Americanism as well as remembering the soldiers of yesterday.

MISSISSIPPI CHALLENGES LEAD FOR POULTRY RAISING HONORS

A growing army of Mississippians is becoming progressively more dependent upon the lowly barnyard chicken for a livelihood, and a good one at that.

This timid and oft maligned domestic fowl not only will contribute $25,000,000 to the bank accounts of its owners this year, but in so doing will be furthering Mississippi's efforts to develop new industries and new jobs.

The popularity of this bird apparently has not been confined to theater audiences which play "Chicken Every Sunday." Because Mississippi alone has increased its poultry production by more than 900 per cent since 1948, and the demand for more production continues.

Just five short years ago Mississippi was producing only about 4,000,000 broilers a year, a mere drop in the Southern market basket. It is estimated that producers this year will raise 37,000,000 birds to put Mississippi third in this field in the Deep South with only Georgia and Arkansas ahead.

The state's rapid development in poultry in such a brief period is even more impressive than production figures. However, last year Mississippi led the nation in broiler production with a 44 per cent increase, compared to a 17 per cent decline for such states as Delaware, Virginia and Maryland, pioneers in the field.

The effects of this growing new industry on the state economy have been keenly felt. The $25,000,000 which producers will receive this year is just a fraction of the money which will be invested and circulated in the state.

For instance, more than 100 new processing plants of varying size have been established in the state during the past five years. Scores of new feed mills have sprung up or expanded. Close to 75 hatcheries are now in operation, capable of caring for 5,250,000 eggs at a time.

The new money from poultry is buying more lumber, wire, nails and other materials for hatcheries, poultry houses and for the other facilities necessary to the operation of a successful poultry farm or industry.

All along the poultry assembly line from the egg to the processed or quick-frozen broiler, numerous services enter the picture. Trucks are needed to transport the products to market, which in turn contributes to the gas and oil industry, to the automobile dealer and on down the line.

The chicken thus is providing a direct income to the farmer, the hatcheryman, the transporter, the processor, the hatcheryman, the processor and the community. Fifty-nine million of every dollar spent on this lowly bird to the farmer so he can pay 100 dollars for a broiler.

Producers estimate that production of 37,000,000 broilers in an area of 47,000 square miles is a record. Mississippi's poultry industry is now producing more than 100 million dollars worth of broilers each year.

Approximately 50,000,000 eggs for hatching will be produced this year. The state's 381 flocks with 300,000 hens will be unable to supply the demand. More than half of all Mississippi's egg production must now be imported.

Back on the farm, Mississippi has 381 flocks with 300,000 hens whose job it will be this year to attempt to supply hatcheries with a portion of the 50,000,000 eggs which will be needed to produce the state's estimated 37,000,000 broilers.

More than half of all eggs used in Mississippi both for breeding and cooking must be imported, according to Paul Young, state extension poultryman of State College.

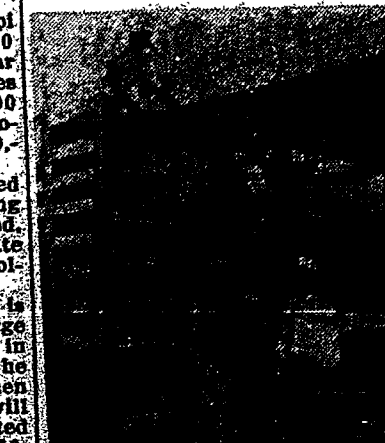

This department, Young says, is vitally interested in the large flock owner and assists him in every way possible. However, he is hoping to see the day when Mississippi's average farmer will cash in on this almost unlimited market by installing small 500-bird flocks on the farm to supplement the family's income and at the same time supply the state's needs.

Mississippi alone can consume the production of eggs for breeding and eating for a long time to come, as one Clarksdale farmer learned. With an eye on the market, this 30-year-old farmer decided to put in a commercial flock of 5,000 white leghorns. He soon discovered that his market was not in Memphis, but right in Clarksdale and that he could get ten cents more for his eggs.

Young says this experience might be duplicated repeatedly in a score of Mississippi communities which are now faced to purchase their eggs from out-of-state.

Although the trend has been toward broiler production in recent years, Young believes that more and more farmers are also turning to the profits which can be realized from laying flocks.

Clarksdale alone consumes about 100,000 eggs each year, and Young estimates that the state's total consumption is about 1,000,000 eggs each year.

This scene of a poultryman delivering his broilers to a processing plant is a familiar sight in Mississippi now. Approximately 10 processing plants of varying sizes have been established in the last 10 years.

Probably the earliest pioneer in the poultry business was L. Rogers of Morton, who started back in 1920 with a pick-up truck and limited capital. His industry has grown to include a fleet of trucks for distributing dressed chickens throughout the nation's largest broiler market.

Young says a modern hatchery with a capacity of 100,000 eggs, a large feed processing plant and a complete processing plant.

This industry has been built on a local basis with local capital, employing over 100,000 people and bringing into the local community hundreds of thousands of dollars in payroll, taxes and cash income to farmers.

Young says the poultry industry is now producing more than 100 million dollars worth of broilers each year.
